An EQ Mentor can provide you with accountability to accomplish your goals and provide you with knowledge and experience in the EQ Skill you are working to improve.

Identify potential EQ Mentors by creating a list of potential EQ Mentors who have strengths in the EQ Skill you are strengthening. Then rate each individual on the following characteristics:

- A good listener
- You trust the person
- Easily accessible
- Has time to be a mentor
- Experience getting good advice from them in the past
- Cares about your future success
- Good at teaching and explaining how they do it
- Are generous in sharing their expertise
- Good at providing constructive feedback
- Will hold you accountable
Improving Emotional Intelligence with SMART Goals

Once you have completed rating the candidates, meet with the EQ Mentor you have chosen, share your SMART goals and your expectations from them. How often do you want to meet? What support are you looking for? Will they hold you accountable? What feedback are you looking for? etc.

After 6-12 months of working on your goals, return to the online Emotional Intelligence Assessment and retake the assessment to measure your progress. Your passcode provides you with two assessments.
